

JOURNAL OF LABOR ECONOMICS

ISSN 0734-306X, e-ISSN 1537-5307

Vol. 37, n. 1, January 2019

Consulta en línea desde Intranet

- |                                                                  |                                                                                                                  |
|------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Joshua Goodman,Julia Melkers,and Amanda Pallais | Can Online Delivery Increase Accessto Education?1                                                        |
| Andrey Fradkin,Frédéric Panier,and Ilan Tojerow | Blame the Parents? How ParentalUnemployment Affects Labor Supplyand Job Quality for Young Adults35   |
| Judith M. Delaneyand Paul J. Devereux                | More Education, Less Volatility?The Effect of Education on EarningsVolatility over the Life Cycle101 |
| Kai Liu                                                   | Wage Risk and the Value of Job Mobilityin Early Employment Careers139                                    |
| Gadi Barlevyand Derek Neal                           | Allocating Effort and Talentin Professional Labor Markets187                                             |
| Junjian Yi                                                | Endogenous Altruism: Theoryand Evidence from Chinese Twins247                                            |
| Robert A. Pollak                                          | How Bargaining in Marriage DrivesMarriage Market Equilibrium297                                          |

JOURNAL OF LABOR ECONOMICS

ISSN 0734-306X, e-ISSN 1537-5307

Vol. 37, n. S1, January 2019

Consulta en línea desde Intranet

A good start? Determinants of initial labor market success

- |                                                                           |                                                                                                                                                     |
|---------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| David Card                                                         | Introduction: A Good Start? Determinants of Initial Labor Market SuccessS1                                                                      |
| Mohit Agrawal,Joseph G. Altonji, andRichard K. Mansfield | Quantifying Family, School,and Location Effects in the Presenceof Complementarities and SortingS11                                      |
| Jesse Rothstein                                                    | Inequality of Educational Opportunity?Schools as Mediators of the Inter-generational Transmission of IncomeS85                          |
| Steven Raphaeland Sandra V. Rozo                              | Racial Disparities in the Acquisitionof Juvenile Arrest RecordsS125                                                                         |
| Hannes Schwandtand Till von Wachter                           | Unlucky Cohorts: Estimating the Long-Term Effects of Entering the LaborMarket in a Recession in Large Cross-Sectional Data SetsS161 |
| Janna E. Johnson andSam Schulhofer-Wohl                       | Changing Patterns of GeographicMobility and the Labor Marketfor Young AdultsS199                                                        |