

EUROPEAN LABOUR LAW JOURNAL

ISSN 2013-9525

Vol. 15, n. 2, June 2024

Consulta en línea desde Intranet

Guest Editorial

Voluntary work in Europe: Introduction to this special issue 227
Christina Hiessl

Special Issue Contributions

Under what conditions do volunteers escape being qualified as workers? 232
Martin Gruber-Risak and Sascha Obrecht

The legal classification of volunteers: A cross-European case law comparison 243
Christina Hiessl

The working conditions of non-professional magistrates and the European concept of 'worker' 263
Emiliano Maran

Before, after and beyond the Matzak case: Overview of the Belgian jurisprudence 277
Sara Huybrechts

Voluntary work in the Italian experience: the curious case of 'socially useful workers' 293
Luca Ratti

Academic Contributions

Is it possible to 'legally desegregate' sheltered employment? General comment no. 8 of the committee on the rights of persons with disabilities and the Benelux countries 304
Mathias Wouters

Quasi (-social) citizenship, the common travel area, and the fragmented protection of employment rights in the United Kingdom after Brexit 319
Niall O'Connor

EU social policy and the subsidiarity principle: The end of an illusion? 346
Sven Schreurs

European Developments

A first step to clarity: Review of ECJ judgment of 19 October 2023, C-660/20 (MK vs Lufthansa CityLine GmbH), ECLI:EU:C:2023:789 368
Eva Kocher

Cross-border workers - navigating the challenges of social security coordination rules in the era of telework in the European Union 376
Fenicia Aceto

Broad application of the training cost rule in the Netherlands 388
Gerrard C. Boot

Anti-discrimination legislation and protection of working conditions of the self-employed 393
Karol Muszyński

Austria's annual leave legislation on its long journey to Europe 399
Martin Gruber-Risak and Sascha Obrecht