

OECD ECONOMIC OUTLOOK

ISSN 1609-7513, e-ISSN 1609-7408

September 2024

Consulta en línea desde Intranet

Turning the Corner

Turning the corner	4
Summary	4
Recent developments	7
Projections	14
Risks and challenges	15
Policy requirements	16
Tables
Table 1. Global growth is projected to remain around its recent pace	5
Table 2. Headline inflation is projected to decline further	6
Table 3. Core inflation is projected to return to target in most economies	7
Figures
Figure 1. Stable global growth has masked differences across countries	8
Figure 2. Real wages have increased in many countries as inflation has eased, but purchasing power has not fully recovered	8
Figure 3. Global trade growth has picked up recently	9
Figure 4. Labour demand has cooled	10
Figure 5. Inflation is increasingly moving back towards target	12
Figure 6. Services inflation will need to decline further to bring inflation to target	12
Figure 7. Housing transactions have begun to recover in some economies	13
Figure 8. G20 economies are projected to have moderate growth and easing inflation	15
Figure 9. Real interest rates remain restrictive and economic surprises could cause financial market volatility	16
Figure 10. Policy interest rates are projected to decline gradually	17
Figure 11. Spending restraint, enhanced revenues and budgetary reforms are key policy priorities to ensure debt sustainability	18
Figure 12. A few countries have undertaken notable competition-enhancing reforms	19
Figure 13. Services sectors regulations remain overly stringent in some countries	20
Figure 14. Product market reforms have the potential to boost living standards	21