

ECONPOL FORUM

ISSN 2752-1176

Vol. 25, n. 5, September 2024

Consulta en línea desde Intranet

POLICY DEBATE OF THE HOUR

US Presidential Election 2024: What's Next for Global Politics and the World Economy?

Introduction to the Issue on US Presidential Election 2024: What's Next for Global Politics and the World Economy? Chang Woon Nam	3
The Economic Policies of the Next US President Barry Eichengreen	5
What to Expect from US Economic Policy after the Presidential Election Anders Åslund	9
US Presidential Election 2024: Consequences for Fiscal Policy Kimberly A. Clausing	13
US Presidential Election 2024: A Comparison of Fiscal Policies Proposed by Leading Candidates for US President William McBride and Erica York	18
Foreign Economic and Macro Policies after the US Presidential Election Markus Jaeger	22
German-US Trade Relations before the Election: Implications of a Trump Comeback Andreas Baur, Lisandra Flach and Dorothee Hillrichs	27
What Difference Will It Make? Impact of a Harris or Trump Presidency on American Foreign Policy Mark N. Katz	32
On the Growing Dangers of Money in American Democracy Valentino Larcinese	36
The 2024 Presidential Election in the US: Potential Impacts on Global Politics and Economics Pádraig Carmody and Paul S. Ciccantell	41

INSTITUTIONS ACROSS THE WORLD

European Banking after the 2023 Crisis Thorsten Beck	48
--	----

BIG-DATA-BASED ECONOMIC INSIGHTS

The Impact of Working from Home on the German Office Real Estate Market Simon Krause, Andreas Trumpp, Tobias Dichtl, Susanne Kiese and Alexander Rutsch	52
---	----