

OECD ECONOMIC SURVEYS

ISRAEL 2025

ISSN 0376-6438, e-ISSN 1609-7513

April 2025

Consulta en línea desde Intranet

Foreword	3
Executive summary	9
1 Maintaining macroeconomic stability	16
1.1. Real activity is set to pick up once geopolitical tensions ease	17
1.2. Monetary policy should return inflation below 3%	27
1.3. Vigilance is in order to preserve financial stability	33
1.4. Fiscal policy needs to navigate the conflicts while paving the way for the future	36
References	46
2 Reaping the benefits of AI	49
2.1. AI holds transformative potential	50
2.2. Expanding AI production from a position of strength	51
2.3. Preparing the broader economy to maximise gains from AI	60
References	68
3 Strengthening decarbonisation and climate change adaptation efforts	72
3.1. Efforts towards net zero will require deep changes	73
3.2. Getting to carbon-free power generation	75
3.3. Minimising electricity demand from buildings	79
3.4. Tackling building-sector emissions from sources other than electricity	84
3.5. Adapting to a changing climate	86
References	89
4 Addressing the high cost of living	91
4.1. Tackling the high cost of living to increase living standards	92
4.2. Lowering trade barriers to reduce import prices and boost competition	96
4.3. Deepening and extending new trade agreements	99
4.4. Reducing agricultural tariffs to lower import costs	101
4.5. Easing border processes and lowering service barriers to facilitate trade	103
4.6. Enhancing competition to spur productivity and lower prices	111
4.7. Lowering the administrative burden to increase dynamism	112
4.8. Reducing entry barriers to increase competition	118
4.9. Increasing the supply of housing	122
References	133